Keynote Speaker:

Dr. Neeli Bendapudi was selected as the 18th President of the University of Louisville in April 2018. Prior to her move to Louisville, Bendapudi was provost and executive vice chancellor at the University of Kansas. At KU she was lauded as a skilled collaborator, fundraiser, faculty advocate and for her affable personality - telling people to “just call me Neeli.”

Dr. Bendapudi has a Ph.D. in marketing from the University of Kansas and teaching experience at The Ohio State University and Texas A&M University. In 2011, she returned to KU to become the School of Business dean and H.D. Price Professor of Business. In 2016, she was promoted to Provost and Executive Vice Chancellor.

Featured Guest Speaker:

Jennifer Coffey is the Director of Admissions at the University of Louisville School of Medicine. Prior to her role as Director of Admissions, she has served as Assistant Director of Medical School Admissions and GEMS Program Coordinator for 17 years. Jennifer obtained her Master of Arts in Higher Education from the University of Louisville in 2014. Speaking with Jennifer Coffey will be a current GEMS recipient to give students a personal view of the program.
